

Let's play...

LAST ONE STANDING

What do I need?

- No materials are needed for this game.

How do I play?

1. Gather into a small group with your students.
2. Ask the students to stand up.
3. Say to the students, "We are going to say the ABCs in order starting with A."
4. The teacher says "A," and the student to their left says "B," then the next student says "C," and so on until you reach "Z."
5. The student who says, "Z," sits down and the game begins again.
6. The game continues until there are two players remaining and they play against one another for the final round.
7. The last person standing is the winner.

Variations

- Once the students know their letter names, you can play this game by having them say the letter names and sounds together ("A says /ă/, B says /b/") until they get to Z.
- You can also play with numbers and count up or down to a certain number, or count by twos, fives, tens, etc.
